

Needs and expectations of our customers

All our activities are geared towards customer satisfaction and success. Flexibility and innovation are the keys for offering the best price performance ratio on the market to our customers and to win new customers. The so generates profit The resulting profit allows us to invest in employees, research and development, in engineering and technology, in order to meet the future expectations of our customers.

Needs and expectations of further interested parties

In addition, we take into account the interests of our suppliers and partners, authorities, neighbors, of the general public and not at of least our employees. Our employees are the foundation of our company. Their skills and motivation are the key to our success, and thus the basis of secure jobs and a secure income.

Compliance with binding obligations

We are committed to compliance with all statutory regulations on the site. Contracts and agreements with third parties are fulfilled by us. In addition, national and international requirements for our products, which relate to the protection of man and nature we regard as binding obligations.

Safety at work

To protect the health of our workers we ensure the compliance with all applicable safety and health requirements and social and ethical standards.

Quality, development and environmental protection

The continuous improvement of the quality of our products is a natural necessity closely linked to a customer-oriented development of our product range. The goal is a product which is suitable for the application and which has a ratio between functionality, service life, raw material and energy input and costs that correspond to the application.

Nature, Energy

We are committed to limiting the effects of our production on the environment and the consumption of raw materials and energy to a minimum. We commit ourselves to improve the energy and environmental management system continuously with the aim of improving the environmental performance. This includes the purchase, the use and the production of resource-efficient and energy-efficient products and the optimizing of the respective processes.

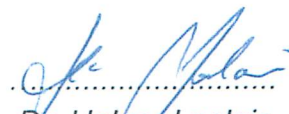

Resources und communication

The availability of resources and information within the framework of our management system are one basis for the realization of our strategic and operational objectives.

Continual Improvement

The continual improvement of our integrated management system consisting of Quality, environmental and energy management is the responsibility of every employee.
